

1

Case 115

Physiologic uptake of FDG in brown fat can be seen in neck, supraclavicular regions, axilla, mediastinum, posterior intercostal regions, and the suprarenal regions, as foci of moderate to intense uptake which are symmetric. This finding was initially thought to be muscle uptake but is now believed to be related to thermoregulation.